years. (Those who prefer not to bike with us will take a taxi over to the island and meet us at the distillery) .

After we return to Avignon, you'll have time for lunch on your own. Today we'll head off to the far end of Provence to where this region meets the Languedoc region. Here we will visit the amazing Carmague– a flat, salty, sandy, marshy terrain where black bulls and white horses roam free. The Carmague is like nowhere else in France, or should I say, there is nowhere in France quite like the Carmague. The gorgeous pink-purple lakes that are actually part of the largest salt pan in the Mediterranean is our first destination. We will board a "petit train" which will take us on a journey to the heart of Le Salin d'Aigues-Mortes – the Aigues-Mortes saltworks. We will see how the ubiquitous Carmague salt is mined. As we travel past the colorful waters along the route, and climb to the top of "camelle" (salt hill) we will have a breathtaking view of our next stop, the medieval walled village of Aigues-Mortes, rising up out of the purple and pink waterscape.

Aigues-Mortes dates back to 1240. Its ancient fortifications, its town walls, are said to be among the best preserved of their type in the country. Inside the walled town you will find restaurants, museums, markets, shops and art exhibits. There will be free time to explore here and for lunch on your own. If you are motivated to work off lunch, you might consider a walk around on the ramparts surrounding the town.

Dinner tonight will be on your own. Restaurant suggestions will be in your app and we are happy to arrange taxis for you. Reservations are suggested if you are planning on going out. If you'd rather relax at the chateau, we will have some quiches (supplied by our chef) as well as some light picnic supplies available.

23:00/23:30 Arrive at Château Gigognan

This morning is all about YOU!

Sleep late, it's vacation! We'll have the morning free to swim, sleep, take a hike through the vineyards or maybe a few games of billiards in the billiard room? Brunch will be available later this morning (coffee, tea and croissants will be put out for early risers) so we can fuel up for a big day dedicated to the wines of Châteauneuf du Pape.

This afternoon is all about Châteauneuf du Pape!

Visiting a vineyard in one of Châteauneuf's many wine estates is a must for any visitor. But since we are not just "any visitors", our vineyard visit will be to the iconic parcels of the Domaine le Prieuré des Papes and we will be guided by the winery's technical director. Here, he will explain the winery's philosophy and the different terroirs. Then we are off to visit their different production sites to learn about the wine making process. Once we are all "experts", we will test our new skills during a blending workshop and try to re-create our own version of the winery's red "Vieilles Vignes" cuvée. Each person will have three samples in total to create their own cuvée. After all of our hard work as winemakers, we will taste our way through a number of delicious wines from the Chateau.

When our day in the winery winds down, we will head back to our Chateau to clean up and get dressed for what is going to be a one-of-a-kind dining experience, created specifically for Bon Beer Voyage, thanks to our Belgian connection!

Now it is time for us to make the transition from wine makers/tourists to epicurean experts as we head to the Michelin-starred restaurant: La Mère Germaine, where we will be treated to a Multi-Course Wine vs Beer Paired Michelin Dinner! This is a concept that we came up with Ruth met the chef, Christophe Hardiquet, during a visit with the local tourism board and learned that before he had the Michelin star in Provence, he had a 2 star Michelin restaurant in Brussels! Of course we immediately made the beer connection and knew that this was fate and happily, the chef agreed. Breakfast/Brunch, Dinner

Day 8 - Thursday June 15th - Séguret and More! Brunch, D

09:00-11:15 Brunch at Château Gigognan

11:45 Depart Château Gigognan

EVENTS:

- Séguret & free time in town
- Château du Barroux for tour and tasting
- Demoiselles Suzette for tour, tasting and picnic Dinner

21:00 Arrive at Château Gigognan

Just before noon, we'll depart for our first excursion of the day, a visit to the charming village of Séguret, classified as one of the plus beaux villages (most beautiful villages) in France. We'll have some time to explore the cobblestone lanes, check out the views and stroll through history in this lovely medieval town. Bonus- the local tea salon serves amazing ice cream right in front of an awesome photo op 😊

Then we are off to visit the Chateau du Barroux, where we will tour the whiskey distillery located within the rooms of the chateau, home to Fanny and Jean Baptiste and their family. Here, they are producing a unique local whisky using a very special type of still from 1928 which was restored by Jean Baptiste. The whisky is made with einkorn, a regional cereal, that adds a special note to the spirit. After touring the distillery, (and a tasting!) we will have a chance to enjoy some of the amazing views from the rest of the chateau.

Next, we will visit a truly unique winemaker and experience some guided tastings in a whole new fashion. Demoiselles Suzette is a small, award-winning winery owned by Richard Orange, an incredibly passionate winemaker, who gives his all to his wines. After a short visit to the cellars with Richard, we will be treated to a magnificent view over the vineyards while, with the help of a wine educator, we will learn about wine through different tasting games. Our sensory tasting experience will help us learn to analyze, understand and talk about wine with the vocabulary of connoisseurs, while having fun. While the sun sets in the background, we'll feast on a smorgasbord of fresh local products- goat cheese and other cheeses from a nearby farm, charcuterie boards, vegetable pies, breads, tapenades and more- all pairing fabulously with our wine. To experience this all in such a magical setting is a Provence Dream come true.

Breakfast/Brunch, Dinner

Day 9 - Friday June 16th - Pont du Gard & Uzes B, D

Breakfast is served at the chateau before we are off to visit the spectacular UNESCO Heritage site: The Pont du

Gard. This ancient Roman aqueduct bridge was built in the first century AD. It is estimated that it took the work of a thousand men 5 years to build the Pont du Gard, which stands as the principal piece in a 50 km-long aqueduct. A tribute to the Roman empire's greatness, it was built to supply water to the area and to the town of Nîmes. Our guided visit will take us to the top of the bridge as well as the museum which will allow us to discover the construction, functions and use of this engineering marvel over time. You'll have time to enjoy a picnic lunch with this aqueduct as your backdrop!

Next we are off to charming medieval Uzes-yet another of the plus beaux villages that we are fortunate enough to visit on this tour! Located in the Gard department, Uzes is just across the Rhône River from Provence. On the lovely Place aux Herbes you can enjoy a drink and some lunch under the shade of a parasol or the lovely plane trees at one of the many outdoor cafes. Wandering about the town you will find some nice shops and galleries, the Duke's castle- which is still sometimes inhabited by the latest Duchal family, and a beautiful Romanesque bell tower- The Tour Fenestrelle.

Tonight we'll feast at the chateau with a wine-paired meal created for us by our own amazing private chef as a Farwell Dinner.
